"JERRY" WATSON REVEALS SHERIFF QUINN

REVEALS ATTACK ON JAIL

Councillor James A. "Jerry" Watson today reiterated his charges of cruelty to inmates in the Charles street jail, and in a hot interview threw down the gauntlet to Sheriff Quinn, who has threatened if Watson comes to the jail to lock him up.

"I'm brave as a lion in this matter," says Councillor Watson. "For I earnestly believe that I am right. I have the proof."

Councillor Watson charged that the United States government has transferred prisoners from Charles street jail to the Middlesex County jail because of dissatisfaction with conditions in Sheriff Quinn's establishment.

His charges yesterday, which precipitated the controversy, were based on a letter written by "Anna Perkins" of Allston, she alleged that a young woman recently died in the padded cell at the jail from neglect, and that another young woman died, that same night from lack of care, after being in the padded cell, Mr. Watson today wrote a reply to the letter, accepting the woman's offer of help in his fight.

Sheriff Quinn responded with this statement:

"If Jerry Watson comes to the Charles street jail I will lock him up. Under the law he and the other members of the City Council are allowed to visit the jail twice a week. With the other members he came to the jail, sat at my table and broke bread with me. Now he has abused me and the institution, of which I am proud."

"I believe as a matter of fact Watson wrote that 'Anna Perkins' better himself. But the jail is wide open for any inspection by any one who has a right to come. I'm not ashamed of anything here."

"HAVE PROOF," SAYS JERRY. "Sheriff Quinn," says Jerry Watson, "will soon see whether what I have alleged is true or not. I have the proof, and I am at present holding out through the local department just what my rights as county commissioner are."

"There are so many conflicting stories as to what Sheriff Quinn said about me that I am at a loss which one to answer. However, I must say I am far from being afraid to visit Sheriff Quinn's jail."

"Day before yesterday I went

Good Hens Lay An Egg a Day

That is, in season—and this is the season when good hens, good eggs—in fact, poultry supplies of all kinds—are being bought. The "Poultry and Supplies" columns in the "Want Ad" pages of the American contain many announcements of interest to poultry raisers and poultry fanciers every Sunday.

Dealers in poultry and poultry supplies find this advertising feature of the American of value to them. It furnishes a chance to address the hundreds of thousands of readers of the American, many of whom have chicken farms—a some, large—and will be influenced by such a "setting of eggs," a new strain of chickens, an incubator, a brooder or some other needed supply.

MERTIE ARLIN UNTOUCHED BY LOVE, SAYS CONSTANCE WILLIAMS

In her character there is a marked difference from that of the average "vanished girl." In most cases, reversing the old French adage, one may safely say "Cherchez l'homme." But with Miss Arlin there was no man who played a part in her life. She was a "good fellow"—a friendly, chummy companion with many young Brookline and Newton men. None spoke anything but good of her; but none could claim any share of her affections. Sincerely she moved through the friendships of everyday life without ever feeling the touch of love's dewy wings. From Constance Williams' story on the Arlin mystery. For complete story see Page 7.

Carry Out Suicide Pact in an Auto

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 6.—Sitting upright, the bodies of John McFadden and Miss Anna Lutz, each aged twenty years, were found in an automobile, twenty miles east of Greensburg, Pa., early today. The girl's arms were around McFadden's neck. Each had been shot through the heart. The county authorities believe McFadden killed the girl and then shot himself.

At midnight McFadden telephoned to the garage where he was employed and where the proprietor answered, said "loosely" and hung up the receiver. Two automobiles started out to find McFadden. They came upon the automobile in the centre of the road. The engine was still going, but the occupants were dead.

Murray Again Head of Fulton Club

Leo M. Murray of Revere has been re-elected president of the Fulton Dealing Society of Boston College. James F. Day of Salem, vice-president; Frederick W. Wensberg, Roxbury, secretary; Richard J. Guilford, Whitman, treasurer; John M. Cunningham, Newton, first censor; T. Ed. Ward, Pittsfield, Cambridge, second censor; Austin H. Keenan, Roxbury, and member of standing committee. The first debate will be held tonight.

$100,000 Bequests for Boston Women

Two Boston women receive $100,000 each under the will of William S. Irwin, San Francisco capitalist, who died in the Honolulu sugar fields. The two women are his sisters, Lora Irwin, and niece, Elizabeth Irwin. Lora Irwin, 41 Bernard terrace, Brookline, Irwin left a $100,000 estate.

8 Burned to Death in Bombay Blaze

BOMBAY, Feb. 6.—More than 80 men and women were trapped in the upper story of a confectionery shop in the Bombay today by fire. Eight were known to have perished and more than a score are missing. Many were injured by landside had been windows and several will die from their hurts.

Change Car Service on Chelsea Line

Regimented at 3 o'clock this evening the Elevated Company will not operate cars in Chelsea between Gerrough Avenue Station and Hollingham station, but will maintain the regular service between the East Boston tunnel and Hollingham station. This temporary want of cars necessary by track work. Cars will be operated on their regular routes beginning with the first car Saturday morning.

Williams Favored for M'Reynolds Aide

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Harold Williams, Jr., of Brookline is being favorably considered by Attorney-General McReynolds for appointment as an Assistant Attorney-General. Mr. Williams has been in Washington recently conferring with the Attorney-General, and it is known that he made a most favorable impression.

MRS. HARTJE, $250,000 DIVORCEE, TO WED SON'S 20-YEAR-OLD CHUM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, divorced wife of Pittsburgh multimillionaire, who is to marry the chum of her son.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, whose divorce from Augustus Hartje, the multi-millionaire, was pronounced in 1910 was preceded 24 years ago by the first of her marriages. She was then a young girl, and her husband, who was then a young man, was the son of a wealthy family. They were married in 1890, and their union was blessed with a son, who is now a young man of 20. Mrs. Hartje and her son, Scott, were together in the East Boston court today to execute and promulgate a letter in which Mrs. Hartje was named as the mother of the child.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The petition for appeal from the decision of Judge Lowell of the Probate Court, denying the almost identical names of the widow of ex-Mayor D. Howard Spear of this city, will not be heard during the present term of the Supreme Court as W. Jennings Patton of Boston, counsel for the petitioner, says his client is ill.

Playing "Hokey" to Take Care of Fuzz

PAWTUCKET, Feb. 6.—The latest dance—the distinct trace of down—has started a discussion in the school committee here. Superintendent Emerson L. Adams reported to the board that a certain youth of thirteen in the third grade had been missing one morning a week for the past month. Inquiry disclosed the fact that the lad was staying at home, one a week to shave. And he shaves.

PROTECTS AMERICANS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 6.—Determined to protect American citizens from many arrests were attempted to invite attacks and demonstrations against the United States.

Additional guards have been placed at all prisons and jails, and troops are held at the arsenal for emergency calls.

Many of the prisoners taken are men who have been trying to lead the lower classes into revolt against the government and there is intense indignation at their arrest.

There has been a marked change of sentiment in government circles during the last twenty-four hours over the killing of arms embargo by President Wilson. Many of those declared today that the action of the Washington administration had given the government an opportunity to gain much needed supplies and its agents have been instructed to buy arms and ammunition in the United States for immediate shipment.

Similar notification was sent to Mexican agents in Europe, accompanied by the following message from President Huerta:

"I earnestly awaits the solution of the state of the present problem. I assure you that on matter which may happen, the Mexican people and its government will maintain the national honor sustained. The financial and military situation are much improved, and such the world will know that peace has been effected in Mexico."

CHIEF ON STAGE

Huerta's reception in public shows he has gained in popularity by the developments of the last few days. "Vivas" are shouted as he passes through the streets, and among even the better classes whom he had almost alienated, there is increasing demand that all Mexico rally to support him against the United States.

A report was circulated by government officials today that Japan and Mexico had agreed to raise their legations in the rank of embassies. Many representatives of Japanese commercial houses have arrived here within the last week to establish offices. Reports from Manila had been expected by the United States government, but were denied at the war department.

FAMILY TRIESTE

PLAN FLYING RACE FROM NEW YORK TO BOSTON

An aerobline race from the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor to Boston Light and return, to take place this summer, under direction by aviators connected with the Aero Club of America. This plan is one of the first steps to train aviators to make long flights over water in preparation for a flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

Officials of the Aero Club have mapped out an all-water course from New York to Boston and return, which is approximately 400 miles. Only machines equipped with pontoons for landing in the water or built as flying boats, would be allowed to enter. All machines which might attempt during the round trip would be disqualified.

Aviators contestants in both Boston and New York are greatly interested in the proposition. Already leaders in the Aero Club have agreed to furnish a part of the prize money which would be necessary to make the proposed race a success.

Alan P. Hays, president of the Aero Club, who has been working out a course for some time, has mapped out a route which includes Long Island Sound, Buzzards Bay, past Cape Cod, across Cape Cod, about where the new canal is under completion, and Massachusetts Bay.

Woodstock, N. J.—I suffered with a peculiar burning itch which started around the neck, legs and back, and spread to the rest of my body. Gradually they covered my whole body, making my hands and feet later the same broke out on my head. My head became covered with large hard phos-phors. My hair came out in handfuls. The blisters burst and turned. I was terribly distressed and everyone noticed my condition. I went to a doctor. I wasn't allowed to attend school until I certified my disease was not catching. I took medicine without being helped. Then someone told me of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The phos-phors broke out in a week. Within six weeks I looked like a different person. I was cured in two months and my skin was clear. (Signed) Miss Hazel P. Watson, Oct. 8, 1913.

A generation of mothers had to weep and wail for crawling and portly babies. The skin and hair of infants and children all over the world. In absolute purity and no irritating fragrance alone are enough to recommend it above ordinary soap. But there are added to these qualities delicate and effective emollients, derived from Cuticura Ointment, which make it most valuable in overcoming a tendency to dandruff, itching and promoting a normal condition of skin and hair. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (25c) add everywhere. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (25c) add everywhere. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (25c) add everywhere.

If child is cross, feverish, costive, give "California Syrup of Figs."

If your little one's tongue is coated it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle thorough cleansing at once. Where your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act normally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, thro-

...sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Plaster." It is a pleasant, cooling, and refreshing, up-conspicuated waste, no bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well-playful child again.

Rice, children's food, is so coaxed to take the harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy. It is a pleasant, cooling, and refreshing, up-conspicuated waste, no bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well-playful child again.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Plaster," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups. The same medicine is the basis of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fruit Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

WHAT'S IN THE LATE NEWS WHERE $20,000 GOES

Not the most important day in history on Beacon Hill, none of the big things your Representatives are wrestling with in committee rooms, as you read this edition of the AMERICAN, are:

Franking the publication of the names of "trouble."

Authorizing the towns of Oak Bluffs and Edgartown to change the outlet of Mount Pleasant Pond.

Forbidding the publication of statements (published in a pamphlet for office use) by the State Board of Health, which have been a copy of the charges at least ninety-six hours beforehand.

Repealing the provisions of the law in the Legislature, on the "two-vote-for this-and-ill-vote-for-that" plan.

Permitting the farmer to kill wild pheasants found among his growing corn.

The citizens of Boston are not going to have an opportunity to vote on the question of annexing the Town of Revere.

Mayor Curley has attended to it.

Revere-talk has a bill with the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs providing for a vote in Revere on two proposed plans, (1) Annexation to Boston; (2) the adoption of a city charter.

Committee has announced that the board of health has been ordered that his Honor is unilaterally opposed to the annexation of Revere. There remains nothing to be considered except that, which is thereby transferred to the Committee on Cities.

Whether the twenty gentlemen who served last fall on the committee of the House shall be permitted to take $20,000 for their trouble will be decided upon in the House next Wednesday.

These were the special committee on tuberculosis and the child labor laws.

There was an uproar in the House last Summer over the proposed appointment of these committees. Speaker Channing took issue against it. The Speaker declared that, not a penny should be expended in this way. On June 14 he wrote a letter to Governor Fox on the subject. The Governor pulled the necessary strings tight against the two committees.

The Speaker voted at that time that no member who advocated the naming of the two committees should have a place in either. On this point he is said to have kept his word.

Now comes the recent committee on tuberculosis, with a bill approved by the Committee on Ways and Means for $20,000.

They spent yesterday afternoon on the subject. Representative Thayer of Charlestown repeatedly urged Speaker Channing to withdraw his opposition in 1912 and urged the Speaker to repeat.

Cushing not mum.

Maria Lomax brought about the postponement.

"I want to ask the Representative from the 'law'," said Martin, "whether they would vote in Town meeting to expend $20,000 in this way. The report of these two committees are said to be in the hands of the printer. Nobody in this House would take the money out of the State Treasury for a per cent interest on $20,000 worth of our bonds. We are not going to do it without having some such as a scrap of paper in the way of a report."

After which he deemed wise and prudent to postpone the bill until Wednesday of next week, by which time the printed reports will be along.

And will they get the money, finally, say you.

Yes, the chances are about seven to one in favor of the bill.

We may just as well consider that the bill is passed, and we have saved a little bit more.

Representative Jerome R. Smith of Provincetown knows how just how much fun Tom Kenny had in his campaign for Mayor.

Brother Smith had a bill to make voting compulsory. He made speech about it. For all the attention he got he might have been delivering a lecture in Chesham at a one-eight stand in the heart of China.

Everybody in the House appeared to be taking this opportunity to come in in the hot of voice with his neighbor.

With a low tone of voice you get 25 Representatives and you get the bill.

It looked as though like Kenny the light be spoke in Ward 17.

P. S.—They quit long enough to take a walk on Mr. Smith's pet hill and kill it dead.

State of Representative James J. Donnelly of Boston, who succeeded in getting the following bill passed by the House of Representatives, and hurried along to the Senate:

FIGHTERS FREE CANAL TO AMERICAN SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—President Wilson announced publicly yesterday for the first time he would try to have Congress at this session repeal the provision of the Panama Canal Act granting free passage to American coastwise ships.

The statement of the President does not change my view. The law should not be changed and I hope the Senate will sustain the provision by an overwhelming vote.

Almost overshadowing the free toll question is the control of the canal at which prohibits the waterway to railroad owned ships.

President Wilson intimated he had not looked into the question of how far this provision affects ships flying foreign flags. At the time of the passage of the canal act, the ships owned by the Canadian railways were included in the prohibition, as the Canadian railways came under the purview of the interstate commerce act.

ENGLAND SERVES NOTICE.—Great Britain has served notice that it does not consider the railroad provision to apply to ships flying foreign flags, and if the United States continues the act otherwise a formal protest will follow.

Representative Knowland, Senator Brewster, Senator Chapman, Senator Chamberlain and others have repeatedly charged that the real Panama Canal controversy is based on the prohibition against railroad-owned ships, and that if the free toll provision is repealed the next immediate move will be to cancel the clause relating to railroads.

It is pointed out that Great Britain remained passive during the House proceedings relating to free toll, and the British flag was not aroused until Canada appealed for aid in defeating the prohibition against railroad ships in the British Parliament was not against free toll, but was directed to the effect of the railroad provision on the Canadian steamship lines.

REAL QUESTION AT ISSUE.—Does the free British protest did not seriously object to the free toll provision for American coastwise ships. The British note of July 4, 1912, contained the following:

As to the proposal that coastwise shall be given to vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, a more difficult question arises. If the trade should be so regulated as to make it certain that only bona fide coastwise traffic which is reserved for United States vessels would be benefited by this exemption, it may be that no objection could be taken.

President Wilson was asked whether any attempt had been made to frame legislation that would limit the free toll provision to ships that were clearly only in the American coastwise trade. The answer conveyed the President's impression that the British protest left the free toll question on a debatable ground, and that the controversy would end with the repeal of the objectionable provision.

The President stated directly to reverse the attitude of former Secretary of State Knox and is a resolution of the Smithsonian Institution. The Democratic platform plank was as follows:

"We favor the exemption from toll of coastwise trade passing through the Panama Canal. We also favor legislation forbidding the use of the Panama Canal by ships owned or controlled by railroad carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal."

TOO BUSY NOW TO TESTIFY AT 'UNDERGROUND'

Letters from Chairman Elliott, former President M. J. Harrington and Vice-President Timothy E. Byrne of the New Haven were read when the Public Service Commission today resumed the investigation of the New Haven "Underground Fund."

Chairman Elliott's letter indicated to release the results of the investigation from their legal right to be silent about the road's affairs. Former President Scollen wrote that he could not come to testify before the commission because he must stay in Connecticut till his approaching trial for murder in connection with one of the "Death Division" wrecks.

Mr. Byrne wrote from Hartford that business engagements prevent him coming today to the next two meetings, but that after that time, if the commission still desires it, he will try to come and testify.

Upon the request of Attorney Arthur Dehon Hill, the commission promised to consider the question of further urging the three men to change their decisions. Mr. Hill said, in speaking of Chairman Elliott's letter:

"The reluctance of the road's attorneys to tell the whole truth has proved a great obstacle to this investigation."

GIVE CARDINAL $200,000 CHECK FOR HOSPITAL

Cardinal O'Sullivan, overcome by emotion, wept on being given the $200,000 check for the St. Elizabeth's Hospital fund at the celebrating banquet at the City Club. He characterized the great success of the campaign as "a beacon fire that would be seen in all lands and place Boston in a position of leadership in Catholic faith and devotion to ideals."

It was officially announced to the donors that more than $250,000 had been pledged, and what most inspired them was that $3 per cent. of the total cash of this sum ($25,000) was acknowledged at the meeting.

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald pointed out that this money has been an opportunity for the Catholics of this nation and he suggested that a permanent organization be formed. This was later put to a vote and carried.

At the close of the meeting, and on motion of ex-Mayor John R. Fitzgerald, a young wife of $25,000 was given for the "splendid assistance" given by the non-Catholic brethren of Boston. The Cardinal pronounced benediction and held an impromptu reception.

Red Tag Sale

This twice-a-year event is the sale that puts the value in bargains with a vengeance—because it is the final wind-up of the season—and winter merchandise must be hustled out at record-breaking speed.

All small lots, broken lots and odds and ends have to be out of the way before the new season opens—and our never-failing remedy of going the limit on price cutting always gives us the desired results.

The Red Tags are a sign that the article bearing them has been cut in price. The white price ticket, which tells the original price, is left on the goods.

A Red Tag bearing the new reduced price, at which it is now to be sold, is also placed on the article. In this way the bargain value is self-evident—and while all goods are not Red Tagged, you will find Red Tags everywhere throughout the store.

MISS FORBES SEARCH OF 'PERFECT LOVE'

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(Special.)—Miss Forbes, daughter of the millionaire financier, A. M. Forbes, left her home at Hydeport, Massachusetts, yesterday for a search for "perfect love." She is now, it is said, in the hands of a "perfect love" agency, and is expected to return to her father's home in a "perfect love" stage, but says she must do it in a "perfect love" manner.

A reporter located Miss Forbes according to her father's friends that is her real name at the home of her mother, Mrs. F. W. Forbes, at No. 10, West Street, New York.

MISS FORBES'S ANSWER.
"I have come to New York to look for a dancer," said Miss Forbes, (who beyond question looks the part of her personality), "and I have come with my father's consent and consent." "She was brought down here by her father, and she is now in the hands of a dancer," she said.

ADVICE TO MISS FORBES.
"About the broken engagement," Miss Forbes, was it because Mr. Baldwin's income was poor and you saw that, being one sort of a dancer, you must choose another?" "No, it was not all," she said.

FOOTBALL MEN ARE DIBBED ON RULE CHANGES

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Prominent football leaders, coaches and officials from all parts of the country gathered here today at the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate football rules committee to discuss and propose changes in the 1914 playing rules that are expected to improve the game.

There appears to be a difference of opinion among the fourteen members relative to the necessity for alteration and substitution in the present code.

"Football, fundamentally, will be the same as it was played last year," said Edward K. Hall of Dartmouth, secretary of the intercollegiate football rules committee.

Professor A. A. Stagg of Chicago University is here with a list of twenty-two proposals which he desires to see incorporated in the code.

Walter Camp of Yale states that intercollegiate football has reached a high state of perfection and, while satisfactory to a majority of colleges, there is still room for much further development. Mr. Camp will advocate the addition of a "safety judge" to the present corps of football officials.

Parker H. Davis of Princeton desires amendments which would advocate the compulsory numbering of the players. Mr. Davis led the fight for this reform a year ago, but was beaten eleven votes to three.

Plan Handicap Events in B. C. School Meet

The intercollegiate indoor meet to be held in the Boston College gym on February 20, under the auspices of the Boston College A. A., is bringing in a large number of entries and indications are that the meet will be a huge success. Among the starters will be a delegation from St. Anne's prep school of Manchester, N. H. An innovation in intercollegiate meets will be the making of handicap events, something which will even up the chances of the local cracks and should supply some exciting contests for the schoolboy audience.

HARVARD SEVEN BATTLES YALE IN FIRST GAME

HOW THE TEAMS LINE UP. YALE
TEAM: ...

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be present at the arena tonight, when the Harvard and Yale hockey teams line up for the first face-off in the first game of their annual hockey series.

The student body of the Harvard University will turn out in large numbers to give their support to the team; four sections having been reserved by the underwriters.

Although Yale lost two games to Princeton and one to Dartmouth, it has shown great improvement in every game since and feels confident of a victory over the Crimson.

There are five veterans on the Yale team, all of whom are putting up a high class of play. The former Yale player, who is a player, has a team of veterans who are prepared for a hard, grueling contest.

Four of the five Yale players played against Harvard last year, and three of them are back in the line-up. Harvard is to be expected to be a strong player in the first game.

RECORD CROWD TO SEE YALE
PLAY HARVARD IN FIRST GAME OF ANNUAL HOCKEY SERIES

It Didn't Take Mutt Long to Show Jeff What He Thought About It

By "Bud" Fisher

Busting 'Em'

Written expressly for the Boston American by the greatest of all ball players.

ONE of the phenomena that I have discovered in my experience with baseball crowds is that the loudest and most abusive "bugs" are the mildest and quietest off the field.

Half players, after they have been in the league awhile, unconsciously make a study of crowds and their habits. Generally you will find that the "fan" who is always "riling" a player is a waiter or a bell boy or an elevator boy or some sort of servant who has no chance to assert himself except when he goes to a ball game.

I don't mind having this sort of yelling at me, and as I have said, some of the best plays I ever made have been with the crowd fringing the field in frenzied games. It all adds to the excitement of the atmosphere, which is most desirable.

If I ever get into a world's series again, I would like to have the playing field entirely surrounded by a bunch of excited, wild "nuts," but an afraid that this would be the case, because there is a rule of the National Association that no player is to be permitted on the field unless he is a member of the team.

"Fans" know that the Athletics were beaten in the last world's series. It did not occur at the last game, but in the seventh game, when the Athletics were leading 3-0, the Yankees broke the window of our cab and showered glass all over us.

The residents were evidently sore at our victory. "Hurricane" and "Reddy" Collins and I were riding down the avenue after the second game, when a cab broke the window of our cab and showered glass all over us.

After that, we went up River-street and I saw a crowd of fans who were waiting for a chance to see the game. I saw a crowd of fans who were waiting for a chance to see the game.

This is a rare incident of modern baseball. Players do not now dress at the hotel but in the club house at the park. In the old days, however, the players dressed in the hotel and went to the ground in a bus.

This was in the days before the automobile and taxicab were plentiful, and those were the merry times. Only the home players had a club-house at the field. The visiting players had to dress in the hotel and then take a bus to the ground.

One time, when I first broke into the big time, I was in the hotel under police protection.

Seldom Attack Man Out of Uniform. However, the change in the methods which has resulted in the players dressing in the park, has cut out most of these moving picture moments. It is a strange thing that a few "fans" will ever attack a player when he is in his street clothes.

AT COMMUNION.

I had never risen early that morning to go to communion at the Madeleine, and never shall I forget the effect of cleansing produced upon me by the sacred sacrament. From the moment when—the priest standing at the foot of the altar—the choir sang the Kyrie eleison down to the solemn silence of the elevation, I had a sense of being

Keep Your Eye on Chicago—At Last a Ward Politician in a Big City Is Faced by WOMEN WITH VOTES

Chicago possesses a statesman named John J. Coughlin, called by his friends "Bath House John." Mr. Coughlin is an Alderman. He always carries his part of the city. He always knows, or always has known, just where the votes were coming from.

Now Chicago allows women to vote. Man having decided that the mother who bore him is sufficiently respectable to share in government, Illinois women will be able to say what they think at the polls and what they want.

Among his opponents for office, "Bath House John" will have at least one woman, Miss Grace Reed, an intelligent educator.

The Chicago American the other day printed the pictures of these two opposing candidates and asked the voters—"For which face would you vote?"

"Bath House John" expects to be elected. It is quite probable that he WILL be elected this time. He has the organization, the machine.

He understands old-fashioned statesmanship, which consists in taking most of the money from most of the men in your neighborhood by selling them bad whiskey—and occasionally, in the bitter cold, giving a pair of shoes or a free lodging to a few of them.

"Bath House John" does not think that women in politics will change things much, and he says, in a little interview:

"The fact that I shall have a woman as my opponent for the nomination will not cause me to change my program in the SLIGHTEST DEGREE."

Good "Bath House John," you are mistaken. You are a healthy statesman, and will live for some years. In a little while education and votes for women will have persuaded you that "there is nothing in politics." Before you make up your mind to stop running for office, permit us to predict that you WILL change your methods CONSIDERABLY.

In all campaigns for men only the most popular thing that a statesman could do was to send home drunk as many voters as possible. That is true, "Bath House John," is it not?

But now that the women in the family—wives, daughters, sisters of the man—can vote, do you not think that local statesmen will change their methods, and say to their assistants, "Send the boys home sober. No more drunkenness, or you will have the old woman voting against us?"

That is one little change in methods which you will adopt, "Bath House John." We predict it.

Hitherto, you have found that all necessary statesmanship was summed up in this, "Take care of the boys before election. Get them out of trouble after election. Buy them drinks. Get them jobs. Take care of the WORTHLESS—and the decent men will take care of themselves."

That was a good program with only men voting. But, "Bath House John," you will find that with women voting the program will change.

You will be saying to your lieutenants before very long, "Find out what those women want. See what you can do to get the streets cleaned. Stop selling that poisoned candy and poisoned lemonade to the children. Let that worthless drunkard stay in jail. Don't use any pull to get him out. He only goes home, beats his wife, and spends the money that she earns and needs for the children."

"Send word around to the saloon keepers that they will close on the hour or go out of business. We are not going to be held responsible for men losing their jobs because they stay up drinking all night."

"Let the men who work know that they can get their pay checks cashed by me dollar for dollar. They needn't go into a saloon and spend a quarter of what they make in order to get money for the checks."

There is a brief outline of some of the changes that will be made in your methods, Mr. "Bath House John," when you realize that women are really voting and thinking. And there will be many other changes made that you little suspect just now.

You will find that in time an intelligent woman as an opponent will be a difficult proposition. Suppose Miss Reed should invite you to meet her on the stand and debate, you could hardly refuse.

Suppose Miss Reed said to you, "Bath House," I am going to ask you a few questions before these ladies and gentlemen. Every question that I ask you will be a question that is put to little boys and girls seven years old in the public schools before they can be promoted. If you can answer these questions, I'll retire from the contest and you can be Alderman."

How would you feel listening to that little speech? You could hardly get up and say frankly that an Alderman doesn't NEED to know anything except what the bigger boss wants to do, and just where his money is to come from.

You would fidget, feel a prickly sensation all over your skin, and you would wish that men had retained their pride and kept women out of voting.

All of this we say very kindly as regards "Bath House John." He is a picturesque product of his environment (we trust that he will not take offense at these words); he is a forceful figure. He has done some favors to some unfortunate.

It is scarcely his fault that he has devoted his attention especially to the drunkard, the worthless that came for help, and that he has had little to offer to the law-abiding and the useful.

The habit of running politics by appealing to the low element and ignoring the other is one of which WOMAN IN POLITICS will cure many statesmen besides "Bath House John," before many years shall have passed.

Incidentally, there are "Bath House Johns" in other cities besides Chicago, and this applies to all of them.

OPPORTUNITY DOESN'T COME LIKE AN ANGEL

Opportunity knocks at every man's door, but don't expect to find upon the step an angel proffering a magic wand, a wave of which will bring you fame and riches. It is the chance for hard work and application that Opportunity most often brings, and do not shut the door upon it to wait for a magic pass to success.

The Immigration Problem—None Should Be Received Who Are Physically, Morally or Mentally Below the Tone of the Country

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

THE idea has been earnestly cherished by a great many of our people that the United States exists for a world-wide purpose; that our destiny will not be accomplished by merely reacting to a great reaction, ourselves, except as that greatness becomes an influence and an inspiration telling upon all the rest of the nations.

This ambition, which is certainly a laudable one, stands in very distinct relation to the question of immigration, and to the policy which, as a nation, we ought to adopt relative to the introduction or the exclusion of the foreign element.

Professor Fairchild of Yale University, has recently discussed this question in a fashion that is broad and statesmanlike. Immigration is one of our great national problems that need to be solved in the light of considerations that are correspondingly great.

The doors of admission to our country ought not to be opened to an applicant on the basis merely of the money which he can show, nor of his physical or intellectual productiveness, nor of his ability to meet the industrial demands of any section of the country. Not even his personal integrity and adequate passport.

Each one of these qualities may be determinative within certain limits, but without answering the full requirement.

Still less ought our country to be regarded by us or the rest of the world as a hospital for the sick, a workshop for the unemployed, a retreat for the oppressed, an asylum for the fugitive or a reformatory for the depraved.

Unwise altruism is as deplorable as egotistic selfishness.

No man should be received from abroad who is physically, intellectually or morally below the average tone of the country. Every such one lowers the tone of the nation and to that degree disqualifies it for fulfilling its mission to the world.

So the principle we are contending for is not professed from motives of self-aggrandizement, but in the interest of a wider and more efficient beneficence.

It is this principle that is insisted upon in every wisely administered household.

The private house has its doors, which are kept shut and locked. No one is allowed to cross the threshold from outside without careful personal inspection.

And still more is no one allowed to become more than a transient occupant of the home if a character to depress the quality of the home or infect in any way any of its members.

That policy is not pursued at the impulse of a mean exclusiveness.

The more conscientiously there is being reared in the home of a family of children with the intention of making them the eventual means of benefiting and blessing society outside and about the world at large, the more scrupulous will be the care taken to prevent the intrusion into the home of any influence calculated to sully its quality and thus impair its ameliorating efficiency.

Even our own hands we cannot cleanse by the use of unfiltered water. It is, then, the criterion of that principle that our policy of immigration requires to be brought.

Are we, we are not lowering the tone of our national character by keeping so widely open to the foreigner our doors of admission? If we are, we are by so much incapacitating ourselves for conferring upon the world the blessing that we have all along been taught that it is our national privilege and function to render.

Cloture Vital in the Senate

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

IT is not, within our American House of Lords, a popular, but it is an essentially vital reform that finds its sponsor and spokesman in Robert L. Owen, the dauntless Senator from Oklahoma.

For the last five years—since the beginning of the Taft administration—there has been gathering among the people an increasing protest against the enormous waste of the people's time and the inevitable delay of the people's business through the present rules, customs and precedents of the American Senate.

This silent protest is ready now to align itself definitely and powerfully behind a public movement. And Senator Owen, preaching in the Senate a brave and timely sermon from the east, "THE INMUTABILITY VETO IN THE SENATE MUST CEASE. THE POWER OF A SENATOR TO BLACKMAIL THE SENATE MUST BE TERMINATED."

The text tersely summarizes a great national evil. The three abuses have had frequent and lamentable demonstration. Senators consuming three days in a single speech, single Senators under the rule of courtesy or privilege holding for days and weeks the vital business of the country in abeyance, and factional filibusters of the minority thwarting or defeating popular legislation altogether. It is, indeed, time to call a halt to such disastrous rules and such unsanctified traditions.

Senator Owen presented a comprehensive resolution in the last session. It will be vigorously pressed in this Congress. It will be fiercely fought from every fastness and fortress of the old-fashioned Bourbon and bonaparte battlements that survive in the Senate. Senator Owen should win, because he is right, and the people of the country are with him.

The waste of the public time, the squandering of the people's money and the delay of the public business through unrestrained egotism and interminable filibusters is a national shame. There should be an end of it now.

Twenty-seven strong and progressive Senators have answered yes on the roll, and from the beginning sustained the vigorous statesman from Oklahoma in his fight. Among these are: Senators James, Kenyon, Shively, Ashurst, Brady, Chamberlain, Chilton, Lewis, Fourness, Kern, Lane, Martin, McPherson, Newlands, Norris, McLean, Robinson, Shafroth, Sheppard, Swanson, Thomas, Thompson, Vandamm, and most probably O'Connor, Hollis, Root, Sterling and Walsh.

It will be a great fight. It will be worth coming to Washington to see the old guard or garrulity die hard. The time will come when men will marvel that any man was ever allowed to speak for three days in the American Senate. The time will come when citizens will hear it as a fairy tale that there was a time when a single Senator could hold up the business of the American people for ten days or more.

The Spirit of Cromwell

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

TWO hundred and fifty-three years ago the "Merry Monarch," Charles the Second, and his associates dug up the body of Oliver Cromwell, along with those of Ireton, Bradshaw, the old Protector's wife and daughters.

They were celebrating the anniversary of the execution of the great Charles, and nothing would do but they must include as a part of their program, indignantly to the ashes of those who had uprooted their game of kingship and inaugurated the liberty which is today the glory of the British Empire.

The bones of Cromwell, Ireton and Bradshaw were torn out of their grave in Westminster Abbey, dragged to Tyburn, hanged, and then, about all day long, and there on a gibbet all day long, and there to be headed. Cromwell's head was set up on a pole and those who would not have dared to look the grand old Protector in the face while he was alive, looked at the head, just as cursed, and had a great time of it.

After glutting themselves with abuse and ribaldry, the brave minions of the Merry Monarch gathered up the honored remains, along with the bodies of John Pym and the gallant old Admiral Blake and threw them into a pit that had been dug for them in St. Margaret's churchyard.

What fools they were to think that by maltreating the ashes of those mighty men they could undo the work that they had done and reverse the current of thought that they had set in motion.

In the eloquent words of Parson Hood: "As the royal voluptuary rode down to the House, did he not gaze up to the head he believed to be his powerful conqueror's, and see in the scowl of the skeleton skull the avenging genius of the country whose holy altars he had profaned and whose rights he had outraged? The mind of Cromwell was abroad, and the genius of freedom as represented by him, was to conquer once more."
